

Scott Campbell

Zodiac Aerospace

Scott Campbell is a Zodiac Aerospace Senior Technical Fellow in the field of Flammability Engineering & Certification. He has over 30 years' experience in material and process engineering and fire safety certification. Scott regularly participates with the International Aircraft Materials Fire Test Working Group and has chaired and contributed to many various task groups including the current "Approved Material List" task group. Scott graduated from California State University, Long Beach with a BS in Chemical Engineering. He also has a MS in Engineering Management received from West Coast University.